

TITLE: Global Working Conditions in Social Work

Key dates	1 February – 31 May
Participants sought	Qualified Australian Social Workers
About	About the study: The International Federation of Social Workers (IFSW) is collecting data on the working conditions and wellbeing of social workers globally. The survey seeks to gather objective evidence regarding their working environment and cast a spotlight on the realities of the working conditions of social workers around the world. In Australia the survey is being coordinated by Dr Erica Russ, and Clarissa Hitchcock from Southern Cross University, and Dr Louise Morley from the University of New England. For more information about the study, please visit this website: https://www.ifsw.org/take-part-in-the-biggest-global-study-working-condition/.
What is involved	Participants are asked to complete an anonymous 10-15 minute online survey .
How to get involved	As an Australian Social Worker please complete the survey available at: https://bathspa.onlinesurveys.ac.uk/ifsw-aus-2023 Social workers internationally are able to participate in this project through the IFSW web site https://www.ifsw.org/take-part-in-the-biggest-global-study-working-condition/.
Institution and investigator contact	The Australian component of the research has ethics approval from Southern Cross University Please feel free to contact the Australian project lead Erica Russ at: erica.russ@scu.edu.au if you have any inquiries about the survey or the study.